STATE OF THE BUILDING The whole of the internal beams and woodwork of the building, as well as the external walls, are generally in good repair, although, owing to the severity of the heavy rains and the trying effects of the climate, the exterior will shortly require colour washing. Upon the usual search being made by the architects in May last, it was found upon opening the verandah-floors and the flat roofs over them, which in places had shown signs of sinking, that the timbers had suffered seriously from white sats and dry rot. The verandah roof on the east eide was not deemed suffi. I disobey, and other consequence was a splendid ciently bad to warrant the expense of roplacing it at crop of Ningchows last year, which fetched expresent, but it will be necessary before the next hot season to have it opened and relaid. The theatre verandah and fiat roof above were, however, consi dered to be in a dangerone state and had to be entirely replaced. employed, which is a most expensive and combrous arrangement. 5.-Likin and other inland charges should be reduced. Besides taxes levied on the growers at the place of production, under a variety of names, varying in different provinces, likin is collected at every barrier, and the tear which now is only two-fifths of its former value, is taxed as heavily as in the prosperous old which is very discouraging to those who deal in it in the interior. 6.-Export duty should be diminished. Indian and Covlon teas pay neither likin nor export duty, and in Japan the export duty is only $1 per 100 catties. In China the old Canton tariff was Tis. 21 per 100 catties. The trade was then a flourishing one: 100 catties was worth Tls. 50 or more, and could well bear a tax of five nor cent. THE STEAMER "POLLUX" ASHORE AT CHEFOO.

The Mercury says :- We learn that the German steamer Pollux went eshore on Monday evening, the 2nd inst., on the West Spit, just under the Lighthouse, opposite the Chefco beach, and whon the Pechili left she was still comfortably ensconced in that soft shelter on the sands. It is not probable that she will sustain much damage, as the sand is very soft there, but how she managed to get there, or what she was about at the time is a mystery. She was bound to Hongkong and left Chefoo shortly after five o'clock on Monday evening. We have not heard at what state of the tide she went ashore, but the people on the Pechili ray that if she lightened she would get off easily.
